The Prague & Stockholm Fringe SELL OUT show about sex, relationships, coffee, and other things that people have when they grow up, told by Andrew Silverwood is coming to PERTH for FRINGE WORLD 2016.

DUMPED! At Platform 4 of London Bridge Train Station (The Starbucks side), Andrew Silverwood goes home and downloads "How to Win Your Ex Girlfriend Back in 28 Days or less – Guaranteed," this play is about following that book word for word.

It's a play about sex, coffee, relationships, and other things people are expected to have when they grow up.

FRAGILITY is a creative partnership between James Grice and Andrew Silverwood. They make shows that are biographical, autobiographical and physical. My First Ten Sexual Failures has toured since 2012 and has enjoyed successes around the UK and Europe, selling out in Prague and Stockholm and having runs at York Theatre Royal, Soho Theatre (London) and Kulturhuset Stadsteater, Stockholm, amongst others.

Andrew Silverwood, a 25-year-old performer, based in London, UK, wrote and performs in the piece.

Of the piece and the tour Silverwood said:

"Bringing work to Australia has been a dream for a number of years and I'm so happy we can now make it happen. This piece is personal. It's about me. I want audiences to hop into bed with me and laugh and cry along, but most of all; I want them to feel the catharsis, knowing that they've been in similar situations with similar people. It's a performance for everyone, providing they're over 18..."

The show spends a week in Perth before transferring to Tuxedo Cat in Adelaide from 12th-23rd February.
