MY FIRST TEN
SEXUAL FAILURES
AND OTHER STORIES
ABOUT GROWING UP

FRI/SCEN – STADEATERN, STOCKHOLM 23rd August 2013. 20:00

BRITISH THEATRE COMPANY TO PRESENT WORK IN SWEDEN FOR THE FIRST TIME

Sat drinking coffee, having a conversation with a pretty girl about how oil spills make puffins and turtles go all sticky, everything was very adult. As the young lady leaves, our character realised, he was a grown up, and the awkward last evening of that girls life was his *sigh* tenth sexual failure. This one-man performance gives an honest performance about sex, relationships, coffee and other things that people have when they have to grow up.

London based Fragility will present the Prague Fringe 2012 sell out My First Ten Sexual Failures and Other Stories About Growing Up as part of Stockholm Fringe Festival (STOFF) On August 23rd.

As well as the sell out Czech Republic run, this show has had on and off West End Performances in London.

“My First Ten Sexual Failures and Other Stories About Growing Up is a story about the silly things that boys and girls do to each other.”

The piece was devised by Andrew Silverwood from his own autobiographical story and directed by James Grice. This performance stems from the company's understanding of the Czech discipline of Authorial performance, combined with Fragility's vision of precision in theatre.

As well as this performance, Fragility have been responsible for the devising of five full scale authorial and autobiographical performances over the last two years.

Performer, Andrew Silverwood, says:

“We tried to be sensible and adult and use big words that they taught us at drama school. But when we did that, the show was rubbish. So instead we tried being honest, and truthful, and then the show was better.”
